

Magic, puppets, and juggling—oh my! Our entertainers perform at the Timpanogos Pavilion throughout the day, but you just may meet them anywhere around the park.

Dal-Pal’s Rigmarole
Dallin Blakenship is a full-time computer animation student nurturing a crazy puppet-building passion. He first ventured into the world of puppets a few years ago and has since cultivated a great love for bringing these little characters to life. Check out his blog where he posts most of his puppet-building adventures.
thegoldengluegun.blogspot.com

Dr. Bruce
Magician, puppeteer, storyteller, and balloon-twisting extraordinaire, Bruce Chamberlain also spends his spare time as a full-time hospice director and medical doctor. He performs in schools, elevators, and at the occasional Bar Mitzvah. A master of distraction, Bruce will delight and entertain children of all ages, so grab the kids and pull up a chair —Dr. Bruce is sure to deliver.

Drew Briney
Lively and energetic, Drew Briney delights and entertains his audiences by using juggling to tell his stories. Drew earned the title of Utah’s Best Professional Juggler in 2001, has competed internationally, and has performed for many civic, private, and professional festivals, parties, and charity celebrations. You won’t want to miss this talented and riveting storyteller.

Dressing the Naked Hand Live!
Get ready for a real treat as Mark Pulham and Amy White, long-time favorites from the Orem Public Library, combine years of experience and talent to create zany fun and follies.

Brian Ellingford
Brian Ellingford has lived in Utah for 15 years and has taught English at Springville Middle School, Cascade Mountain High School, and Orem High School for most of that time. He has been performing magic since he was in high school. He has a wonderful wife and four children, and enjoys reading and gardening in his spare time.

Joe & Isaac Flores
Two of the most creative and entertaining mimes you’ll ever meet, Joe & Isaac Flores are sometimes serious, usually hilarious, and always a delight. Joe can make you believe anything—and all without saying a word! Joe is also president of the Utah Puppetry Guild and works for Robotronics, Inc. as a robot designer.

You will be amused and entertained throughout the day by these wonderful jugglers.
Sam Holley Joshua Wartena Noah Kershisnik

Jugglers

Come see why Utah’s premier comedy juggling team has won so many state championships. Mark Nelson and Brent Jensen juggle anything and everything from flaming torches to knives, bowling pins to little balls—both on and off their unicycles. And, if these amazing feats aren’t enough, you’ll be sure to giggle through the comedy routines. Jugglenutz is a favorite for all ages.
jugglenutz.com

Jugglenutz

Theron Milo the Rocky Mountain Wizard
After watching a magician in elementary school, Theron became obsessed with the craft and has been performing magic and sleight of hand for the past 12 years. Recently, Theron became the house magician for the famous Brick Oven restaurant in Provo, performing every Monday, Friday, and Saturday between 6:00 and 8:00 PM
magicmilo.weebly.com

Nat Reed
Nat Reed is a maker of things. As the technical director and designer for the SCERA Center for the Arts, Nat gets to make everything from dragon heads and big-mouth birds, to burlap trees and giant nutcrackers. He is now the puppetry instructor for SCERA and BYU and festival director for the Puppetry Arts Guild of Utah.

Paradise Puppetworks
Paradise Puppetworks has a hundred puppets of all types, but they will use their favorite marionettes this year to perform several fairy tale classics. Paul and ?? are the anchors for this troupe, but they often call on sons, daughters, and even some of their grandchildren to help pull it all together.

Pulley Puppets
Pulley Puppets is a family of puppeteers who have been performing their funny, entertaining, and witty shows all around the valley. They enjoy creating new stories or taking familiar stories and putting a special twist on them. Pulley Puppets are members of the Utah Puppetry Guild and members of Puppeteers of America.
pulleypuppets.blogspot.com

Whizgiggle’s Puppets
Combining the magic of hand and shadow puppetry, The Salt Lake City Public Library’s very own home-grown puppet troupe has been entertaining audiences for years with their zany storytime antics and hilarious puppet performances. Join these amazing puppeteers as they put on a show that is sure to take audiences to a whole new level of fun.

